Notes for Patrick O'Donoghue:

THE PATRICK O'DONOGHUE FAMILY (Of Chicago)

Bridget's brother Patrick O'Donoghue and his wife Maggie lived for many years in the 4900 block on Van Buren Street in Chicago. Pat was killed on his 50th birthday, on March 10, 1931, when he was hit by an automobile while crossing Jackson Blvd. at Lavergne Avenue, while coming home from confession on Saturday night at Resurrection Church.

Their daughter Helen was a close friend of Jo and Mae Windle, although she was about ten years younger. She married Joseph Walsh, a plasterer. Joe Walsh was always generous in coming over to plaster the walls of our bathroom and do other minor plastering jobs, when they got too far out of repair. (With Aunt Mary, there were eight or nine people using the single bathroom in our "flat" at 5061 Congress St.). Jo remarked in later years that when Joe Walsh came over to do some plastering she could always count on Jack getting plastered, too, since Joe refused to accept anything more than a hospitable drink for his help, and Jack naturally reciprocated by being an overgenerous host.

Helen and Joe Walsh's daughter, Marilyn, was taught speech and drama by Mary Crawford at Siena High School. Marilyn married Bill Bresnahan and they moved to Phoenix when Bill's family business was acquired by the Greyhound Corporation.

Marilyn and Bill Bresnahan had six children - Michael, Maureen, Rita, Carol, Dave and Jeanine. Rita married Peter Lusk and lives in Naperville, but is soon moving back to Arizona.

Dave was a catcher for a Pittsburgh Pirates farm team, the Class AA Williamsburg Bills, In 1987 he threw a potato over the third baseman's head, and then tagged out the homebound runner from third base with the baseball he had held onto. He was fired the next day because of the furor over whether his ploy was legal. An article about the incident appeared in The Chicago Tribune and the Reader's Digest in June 1989.

Bill Walsh was in the Chicago Police Department and died in 1981, at age 54, shortly before he was going to retire. His widow, Jeanne, lives in Sun City West, AZ. One of their daughters is married to Patrick Lusk (Peter's brother) and lives in Arlington Heights, Illinois.

Joseph Walsh, Jr., was a driver and later a superintendent for Material Service Co. He has a son in the Chicago Police Department.

Pat and Maggie had three sons, John, Harry and Michael. John was a great baseball player, He played ball with a group his age at Arlick's, an empty lot at the northwest corner of Lavergne and Van Buren. One of his good friends was Ernie Primeau, who became a priest in 1934 and later bishop of Manchester, New Hampshire. John and a few friends occasionally came by on Congress Street in an open-top Model T. John died in 1933 while still a young man.

Harry Donahue (deceased) has a daughter, Barbara Pehlke, who lives in Phoenix, but spends a lot of time in California,

Michael had three children, John, Michael and Helen. John, who is now deceased, was Vice President for Student Development at Oakton Community College, in Nilis, Illinois, in 1997.
